

As Clear Channel Communications has so blatantly pointed out with it's radio ownership of over 1,200 stations, consolidation only serves large companies that want to gobble up the largest market share possible. Though I fear this e-mail will fall on deaf ears, I urge you not to open broadcast markets to even greater dominance by media giants like Viacom and NewsCorp. I work for an independent radio station, and they are quickly heading the way of the dinosaurs.